SALES POINTS

| The Forest of Letters is a collection of books for early readers (aged four to five years).

| The content stimulates the child's interest and builds fundamental reading skills. It is an excellent introduction to the world of books.

| Text throughout is provided in both printed and joined-up typeface format so that each child can choose which he prefers. Text columns are narrow to aid visual recognition and superimposed on pale backgrounds so as not to distract the reader.

| Employing short sentences and accessible vocabulary, the narrative themes have been chosen so that the child can identify with them.

| Appropriate illustrations on every page will not only delight readers but make the act of reading more enjoyable.

| Each book has a reading comprehension and vocabulary section - a reference point as the child works through the book. There are also games and activities, related to the word and letters in the context that they appear in each story.

TARGET

| Early readers (aged four to five years).

WHAT THE BOOK IS ABOUT

| Each of the eight titles is like a forest full of letters - a forest that stimulates the imagination while that child deciphers the complexities of the written word. The books have been written so that the child has fun reading them while they gently nurture his reading skills, so that he

- Learns the use of new words
- Recognizes the patterns and sounds of speech
- Connects sounds with their corresponding letters, deciphering the 'reading code'
- Can recognize and name the letters of the alphabet

- Understands what he has read
- Improves his level of concentration
- Improves his memory

The collection comprises the following titles:

- One More!
- We Love You So Much!
- Bye-Bye Fears!
- Don't Touch!
- I am Old Enough!
- Recipes to Remember!
- Let's Dream!
- Going to School!
